A Social Mystery.

A POPULAR NEW YORK BACHELOR PROVES TO BE THE HEAD OF A LARGE FAMILY—THE TRAGICAL SEQUEL TO AN UP-TOWN MARRIAGE.

A SAD STORY.

From the New York Evening Post.

Here is a story of the saddest side of New York life. Not many days ago there was a fashionable marriage in one of our up-town churches. The bridegroom was a remarkably handsome man, of nearly thirty years of age, well known in what is called fashionable society as an agreeable, liberal bachelor and "ladies' man." The bride was a lovely girl, belonging to one of our best known families, and esteemed as much for her character as admired for her beauty. The friends of both were present, and nothing surprising occurred at the ceremony, save that all present remarked upon the appearance of the bridegroom. He was apparently so depressed by some great sorrow or anxiety that he could not smile or command a cheerful word. The pair had spent but a few days together, when her husband, after an interview with his young wife, which left her almost crushed in mind, hastily called at his bachelor rooms, which he had not yet given up, burned a large number of papers, packed up a few precious articles, and suddenly disappeared, and no one of his friends now know where he is to be found.

But the dreadful truth reached their ears too quickly. At one of our new hotels in the centre of the city, but a few blocks from the church in which the marriage was performed, there was found a woman and several children bearing his name, and she found no difficulty in establishing her right to it. She is many years older than he. They were married when he was scarcely more than a boy, and have never published the marriage; but they never quarreled nor separated. He still supported her and visited her; and on the very day of the second marriage, at noon, he made her a long visit, in his usual manner.

This event has been a sudden shock to both families, and the absolute concealment of the marriage from all his friends for many years, while his wife and children openly bore his name in public hotels in this city, is as unaccountable to them as it will be to others. The young man was for several years an internal revenue officer in this city, but for some years past has been employed in a bank down town. He has paid three thousand dollars a year for the board of his wife and children, while receiving a salary of only two thousand; and has yet maintained his bachelor life with lavish expenditure. In his rooms are said to have lain not far from a hundred suits of clothes, with expensive books, and many other evidences of wealth. But his accounts at the bank are said to be entirely correct. His full understanding of what he was doing appears from the fact that he carried to the altar a pistol, with the fixed purpose, as he afterward said, of blowing out his brains there if the ceremony was interfered with.

We draw no moral from these facts. But the very shock they give to all who know of them, is a proof that crimes of this kind find no sympathy or toleration in this community; and that the standard of morals here is not so low as some writers have said, who appeal to such cases as these for illustration of New York society, instead of what they really are—frightful and exceptional outrages upon it.

THE MYSTERY SOLVED.

The Post's sensation, published above, has been verified by the further discoveries of the Standard reporter. It is indeed a sad story of duplicity, infatuation and desertion.

Calvin R. Cross, the nephew of Mr. Jos. M. Cross, and son-in-law of Cornelius Vanderbilt, is the cause and hero of the scandal. He has been employed in the Central National Bank. Five years ago, in Boston, he married a Miss Patton, with whom he lived at the Ashland House on Fourth avenue. He meanwhile passed in society as a bachelor, and as such occupied elegant apartments in West Fourteenth street. On the 23d of November last he married Miss Luckey, the daughter of Nelson Luckey of New Hamburg, carrying a pistol, as it has since been learned, with the purpose of blowing his brains out in case of interference.

In a few days he disappeared. His first wife is now residing at West Fourteenth street.

The second wife has returned to her father's home.

A CHILD WHIPPED TO DEATH.—One of the most heartrending murders occurred in the vicinity of Yankee Springs, just over the line in Alpena county, township of Wayland, some seven or eight miles from this place, last Monday, that we have ever been called upon to record. It appears that a desperate character by the name of Joseph Wheaton lost his wife several years ago, who left him a young child, a little boy somewhere about one year old, which he gave away, legally, to Baird, of Yankee Springs. This family kept him unmolested till last fall, when Wheaton stole the child from Baird, who recovered him in turn, when Wheaton prosecuted Baird for "kidnapping" his child, the complaint being made before Justice Cobb, of this town, who rendered a judgment delivering the child up to to Baird and wife, who are very wealthy people, and who had become very strongly attached to the child, they having no children. Upon leaving the courtroom of Justice Cobb and passing into the street, Wheaton again attempted to steal the child out of Baird's arms, and finally did so, after breaking one of the child's limbs in the melee, running off with it in the dark, it being evening, and secreting himself with the child in the woods with a family some three miles from town. When his hiding place was found, and he was approached by the Sheriff, he fired upon the officer and left the child, making his escape into a swamp, but was afterwards found and the matter compromised, Wheaton agreeing to leave the child with Mr. and Mrs. Baird, unmolested. With them the child did remain until last Sunday or Monday, when Wheaton stole the child again, and because the child would not stay with him being strongly attached to Mr. and Mrs. Baird, he whipped it to death. In the agonies of death the child's screams attracted six men to the house, but too late to deliver it from the tormentor's hands. When this demon of a father was confronted by these men, he seized an ax and avowed his intention to split down the first man that laid hands upon him, and made his escape from them to the woods, they being unarmed. The excitement of the whole country around is terrible—the people have turned out en masse with arms, hunting the animal. Since the death of the child's mother, the father, it appears, has lived with several lewd women, but at the time he first stole the child, he had "got a woman he intended to keep," as he expressed himself, and this was his only excuse for stealing the child. The mother is represented as having been a very worthy woman. The child was some six or seven years old.—Cor. Detroit Tribune, Feb. 1.

The wife of a man named Eli. Hanna, of Dunlapsville, Union county, Indiana, starved to death not long since, while the lazy husband took his meals at his father's, where the wife was not permitted to visit. The citizens of Dunlapsville plead ignorance of the family prior to the day of her death. When found, food was given her, which she seized savagely and ate voraciously, but immediately threw up. The children were also in a starving condition.

A county auditor in New Hampshire has presented to him for allowance in a law suit a bill, which reads: "To doing your chores, such as drawin water, chopin wood and feedin cattle the weeks while you lay drunk, $21."

The Latest Tammany Swindling Scheme.

HOW IT WAS UNEARTHED AND FRUSTRATED—A STUPENDOUS JOB.

A dispatch from New York, February 6th, gives the following information relative to a transaction put up by that band of patriots known as the Tammany Ring, who are at the head of the Democratic party in the United States:

The death of County Auditor Watson has unearthed one of the most stupendous jobs of the Tammany Ring. The Legislature of this State at its session last winter passed an act authorizing the opening of Broadway from Thirty-fourth to Fifty-ninth street. Commissioners were immediately appointed to assess the damages for injuries inflicted and benefits for value conferred upon property affected by the project. The Commissioners, working in the interest of the Tammany Ring, were not faithless to their masters. Proceeding to the work assigned them, they succeeded in paving the way for one of the most shameless swindles of modern times. By collusion with the owners of property taken for the widening, they managed a scheme which, but for its timely frustration, would have enriched the members of the ring by several millions of dollars. The allowances made to these property owners were far in excess of what they ought to have been. The ring had voted themselves a big job, and they were resolved that the opportunity which it offered for a prodigious swindle should not be lost. A share—albeit a small share—of the excess was to have gone to the property owners; the remainder was to have been pocketed by the men who initiated and were developing the scheme. But then it would have been far from safe for the ring to have permitted the whole amount of the allowance to pass directly from the city into the hands of the owners of the property assessed. The ring would, in that event, have been by no means sure to have secured their share of the plunder. There was but one course to pursue; the money must be passed from the city into the hands of a stakeholder, as it were, who should give each claimant his share of the funds. As, under the agreement, the County Auditor, Mr. James Watson, was selected for this purpose, in consideration of excessive allowances the property owners, or most of them, had been induced to assign their claims against the city for damages over to that gentleman, in trust, to pay the ring its share and the property owners their share of the proceeds. Most of the property owners made this assignment, and it is said that at the time of his death Mr. Watson was a trustee on this account for $9,000,000. Much less than one-half of this, in the aggregate, was to have been paid to the property owners; much more than one-half was to have been received for division among the members of the ring. It was Mr. Watson's death that defeated the fraud. No sooner had the last breath left the body of Mr. Watson than Mr. Tweed quickly left the house and was soon in conference with his fellow conspirators. The trustee of the moneys which their fraud was to have secured from the city was dead. His estate must be taken before the Surrogate, and then all the circumstances connected with the creation of this trust estate of $9,000,000 would be inquired into. The fraud—the swindle—of the ring would thus be laid bare to the public gaze. What should be done to hinder this undesirable exposure? The debate upon this question was short, sharp and decisive. The act enforcing the widening of the street must be repealed. The "Boss" quickly communicated his directions to his minions at Albany, and the repeal act has already passed to its third reading.

Austria Arming.

PREMIER VON BEUST ON THE DANGERS OF THE EUROPEAN CRISIS—THE EMPIRE NOT REVENGEFUL BUT "PRUDENT."

[Telegram to the New York Herald.]
LONDON, Feb. 1, 1871.

By telegram from Pesth, dated in that city yesterday, I am enabled to report to the Herald that during the Parliamentary session of the Austro-Hungarian delegation on that day the Premier Baron von Beust delivered a speech in advocacy of an increase of the armaments of the empire, both military and naval. He said that he distinctly "repudiated the idea that the government was actuated by any policy of revenge for the past, but that the danger of warlike complications involving Austria was not a phantom peril. The policy of the empire was peaceful and prudent; but contingencies were possible, and the foreign Powers must learn that Austria is ready for defence."

Towards the close of his address Premier Beust said, "that while the relations of the empire with North Germany were most friendly no effort would be spared to prevent fear and suspicion and secure mutual respect."

MILITARY STRENGTH OF THE AUSTRIAN EMPIRE.

In connection with the important declaration of Premier Beust, as given in our cable report above, it is of interest to know that the report of the Military Committee, which was lately presented in the Lower House of the Austrian Reichsrath contained a brief expose of the military reforms and army force of the empire, with some few pointed remarks on the surrounding situation as tending to war. The members of the committee gave expression to their conviction that "the present straining of the military resources in Europe cannot possibly be of any long duration, and must either end in a general disarmament, peaceably agreed to on a mutual understanding, or result at no distant period in a violent war and consequent universal exhaustion; for no State is in a position to bear for any length of time the burden of the present armed attitude without drifting into financial and economic ruin." Comparing the future organized military strength of the Austro-Hungarian monarchy on a war footing (viz., common army 800,000 men, military frontier 53,000 men, landwehr (militia) in the two halves of the empire, 200,000 men—total 1,053,000, men), with the military strength of the other great continental States—namely, the North German Confederation, then commanding an army of 1,028,946 men (standing army 843,294 men, landwehr 185,552 men), and including South Germany, with 200,171 men more (standing army 156,760 men, landwehr 43,411 men), or grand total, 1,229,117 men: Russia—Field army, including that of the Caucasus, 827,350 men local troops 410,427 men, irregulars 229,223 men—together 1,467,000 men; lastly, Italy—Standing army 345,461 men. National guard Mobile, exclusive of Venetia, 132,000 men—total, 460,461 men—the Austrian committee is of opinion that the figure given in the Army bill for the strength of the Austro-Hungarian army in time of war does not go beyond the limit required for the security of the State and the maintenance of its power and dignity. The committee finally declared that the acceptance of the Army bill by the Legislature of the two divisions of the monarchy will prove to Europe "that both parts of the empire are resolved to stand together in the hour of danger, and that Austria's power has increased."

We find a statement in an exchange that strikingly illustrates the influence of New England and New York. It states that previous to the admission of Frank P. Blair, Jr., thirty-seven members of the United States Senate, a majority, were born in New York or New England; of the Supreme Court, six of the nine Judges; and of the Cabinet, five of the seven members are natives of the same State. A like proportion of American Ministers abroad came originally from those seven States.

CALIFORNIA AND NEVADA.

Nevada is in the annexing business. Besides a part of Utah and a part of Arizona, the Legislature of Nevada also wishes Congress to annex to that State a strip of Idaho.

The party of engineers who left Sacramento some weeks ago to survey a route for the Central Pacific Railroad Company from Benicia to Red Bluff, have finished that work.

W. T. Robinson has shown the editor of the White Pine News a specimen of ore from the Paxton mine that assays $16,000 to the ton. It shows ruby and horn silver all through it.

John R. McConnell, a candidate for Governor of California on the chivalry (secession) side some years since, will be a candidate for Judge of the Supreme Court before the Democratic Convention of that State.

The California Steam Navigation Company have been carrying freight from San Francisco to Red Bluff, since January 25th, at $12 per ton dead weight, laying aside their measuring sticks. Railroad competition has forced this reduction.

The Alvarado Beet Sugar Mill has already marketed 1,000 bbls white sugar, and they have beets enough left to make a few hundred bbls more of their A—perhaps 2,500 bbls of their three grades, A, B and C. The latter is considerably impregnated with alkali, and is not a very desirable article. Within another month this Beet Sugar Mill will try the experiment of refining raw Peruvian cane sugars and with what success remains to be proved.

WASHINGTON FACT AND GOSSIP.

The Senate Appropriation Committee is at work on the Indian appropriation bill, and is cutting down the items of the bill.

A dispatch of the 6th states that Senator Corbett's bill, reported favorably from the Committee of Commerce, providing for the incorporation of the Japan Steam Navigation [illegible] general discussion, but had [illegible] committee amendments that its friends [illegible] re committal, which course was finally [illegible].

On the 6th inst. the Senate [illegible] amend the act of 1831, allowing [illegible] chandise in bond from New Orleans [illegible] Wheeling, Cincinnati, Louisville [illegible] ville and Natchez. This is the [illegible] Mr. Kellogg last session, and is [illegible] bly recommended by the Treasury Department. It requires no bond to be given by [illegible] sels which transport goods, and [illegible] particular as rigid as the law recently [illegible] transporting goods to Cincinnati, St. [illegible] Chicago in bond from Eastern ports.

CURRENT NOTES.

It is said that when diamonds are used in [illegible] ting hot glass in a glass factory, one will last for only one day, assuming a milky appearance, but that, if the glass be cold, one will last three months. Hot glass is cut, however, more readily than cold.

After commencement, 1872, Harvard University will give no ordinary degree whether in arts, law, divinity, medicine or science without examination. The President and [illegible] acting through a committee of professors and lecturers appointed by them for this special purpose, have taken measures to institute an examination for the master's degree; but the plan is not yet matured.

There is at present in Montreal a widow of 22, who is the mother of nine children. She was married at 16, and before her 17th birthday presented her lord with twins; the following year she produced at one birth three [illegible] year she had twins, and repeated the performance the following year—making nine children, the oldest being barely four. The children are all living and doing well.

Charles H. Preble, a Massachusetts express messenger, was notified a few days since that $130,600 awaited his order, that being the estimated value of the estate of his uncle who had just died in Ohio. Superintendent [illegible] remarked at pay day that he presumed [illegible] wouldn't be round at many more pay days. "Well," said Charles, "I'll stay awhile [illegible] don't know why I can't work as well now as before."

John W. Forney, in his "Anecdotes of Public Men," illustrates the prescient business sagacity of Stephen A. Douglas by a bit of personal experience. In 1853, Mr. Douglas, pointing to the map, said to Mr. Forney: "How would you like to buy a share in Superior City, at Fond du Lac, the head of Lake Superior?" Mr. Forney replied that he had no money, but Mr. Douglas was so much in earnest and so sure of the profits of the investment, that Mr. F. was induced to borrow $2,500 and buy a share in the prospective city. He divided this share equally with a friend at Mr. Douglas' request. "After cutting my half share into five parts," says Mr. Forney, "I [illegible] and gave three fifths to other friends, and, [illegible] my two-fifths bought the Waverly House in Washington. The proceeds of my moiety of the share of Superior City realized $21,000. For this I was indebted to Stephen A. Douglas.

A New York letter to the Boston Advertiser says: "Chief Justice Chase has recently come to the city and taken quarters for medical treatment. On a fine afternoon he may be seen slowly and unevenly walking in Fifth avenue, chatting now and then a few minutes with friends and acquaintances whom he meets. He talks of going back to Washington in a couple of months, to resume his duties on the bench of the Supreme Court. I hope he may be able to do so, but I think I do not err in saying that his days of public service are practically at an end. He had a slight shock of cerebral paralysis last summer, and while there is no reason that he may not live for many years to delight his friends and social circle, and enjoy the honors of great public service, I believe the members of his family have been told by competent authority, that it isn't likely he will ever again be able to grasp intellectual questions with his old vigor and comprehensiveness."

CERTIFIED BANK CHECKS—AN IMPORTANT DECISION.—The United States Supreme Court has reversed the decision of the Massachusetts Circuit Court in the case of the Merchants' National Bank, Boston, against the State National Bank of that city, thus deciding the important question whether a bank is obliged to make good checks certified by its cashier. Justice Swayne delivered the opinion, from which Justice Clifford and Davis dissented, in which he holds that all the facts should have been submitted to a jury, and on the authority of a cashier to bind a bank by his act says, in substance, that by all authorities, English and American, a check may be accepted, and that by the law of merchants in this country the certification by a bank that a check is good is equivalent to its acceptance and undertaking that it shall remain good. This agreement is as binding on banks as notes of circulation, and the transferee of such check takes it with the same sense of security that he would the notes of the bank. The certifying bank without doubt intended these consequences, and is accordingly liable. This is plain equity. The power conferred on a cashier empowers him with the same authority to certify a check as he has to receive the money of depositors, as his power is inherent in office. The cashier is an executive officer of the bank, and conducts all its financial operations; and persons dealing with the bank have a right to rely upon the integrity of its officers, when acting within the apparent sphere of their duties, and the bank is bound accordingly. The amount involved in the suit is $600,000.

The Republican Party and Economy

[illegible] the Idaho Statesman.

We [illegible] shortcomings and corruptions of [illegible] republican office holders are being [illegible] by the democracy [illegible] assurance to [illegible] that reformation in this respect and [illegible] economy is to be wrought [illegible] of democracy, it is well [illegible] to compare the relative pecuniary [illegible] of those sections of the country where the respective parties are the most [illegible] the ascendency. We can [illegible] tolerably correct idea of the prospect before the country of democracy is in [illegible] power.

[illegible] the democracy has [illegible] majority and absolute [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] the illustration a little nearer [illegible] compare the financial [illegible] the democratic and republican [illegible] to understand how [illegible] democratic boast of economy. The [illegible] of Idaho and Arizona have had [illegible] existence for about the same [illegible] intensely democratic, and Ar[illegible] intense the other way. [illegible] sources of revenue [illegible] Territories Idaho [illegible] the Treasurer of several [illegible] thousand dollars for licenses. Idaho [illegible] has a debt of about $140,000, mostly [illegible] democratic officials [illegible] and has $5,000 [illegible]

We [illegible] instances to illustrate [illegible] might compare New [illegible] Montana; we might compare [illegible] Territories, but the result [illegible].

The most hopeful sign [illegible] times for Idaho Territory is, that the people have shown that they have got about enough of democracy. The warning was spoken in the ears of the party leaders at the last election, and a legislature was sent up which dared not launch into the usual extravagance. The manifest gain of republican sentiment there shown was their handwriting on the wall, whereat their knees smote together, as did Belshazzar's of old. Perhaps, on the whole, the best method of strengthening the republican hold on the public affection, is to give the democracy a short lease of power here and there in the land. They are apt to show what we have all along contended—that democracy has lost the governing instincts, and will shortly so disgust the people that they will give it final burial in oblivion.

Says the psalmist: "He maketh my feet like hind's feet." A negro preacher read it "hen's feet," and proceeded to say "dat a hen in de hen roost, when she falls asleep, tightens her grip, so's not to fall off. And dat's how true faith, my bredren, holds on to de rock."

Some of the Fruits.

When some of the land sharks who were attracted to the State Capital last fall, concocted and engineered through the Legislature the notorious swamp land scheme, it was their intention to secure by it as much plunder as it was possible to obtain. They took care that no provision should be made to secure the rights of prior occupants of such lands as members of their own ring might choose to denominate swamp and overflowed tracts; in accordance with this design the act was so constituted as to be wholly in favor of the land grabbers, and wholly against the settlers on the public lands.

This eminently wise action by the Democratic Legislature of our State is beginning to produce its fruit. We invite the attention of readers to the proceedings of a Farmers' Convention, held a few days ago in Union county, and published in our columns to-day. It will be seen that certain parties, no doubt members of the swamp land ring or their agents, have filed claims upon many tracts of land in that quarter already occupied by settlers. "Unprincipled land speculators and vagrant interlopers" are denounced by the Convention in fitting terms; but we wonder it has not occurred to settlers in that locality whose rights are being invaded to condemn the body of men who, acting as legislators, passed the law under which these operations are authorized. And of course those whose property is thus men[illegible] when appealed to next year to elect [illegible] Legislature of the same kind, will re[illegible] with alacrity and vote the straight [illegible] ticket, as usual!

[illegible] resolutions which we publish some[illegible] is said about the determination of settlers to make it uncomfortable for land-grabbers—in other words, the said depredators are [illegible] "summarily dealt with" in case they at[illegible] [illegible] their claims. Now we can[illegible] [illegible] sanction any proceeding of this [illegible] but if the settlers are fully resolved to [illegible] vengeance, we would gently [illegible] might be as well to take in hand [illegible] original perpetrators of the outrage and [illegible] summarily" with the members of the [illegible] from that section who helped to [illegible], or who voted for it at the in[illegible] of the land ring.

What is taking place in Union county is only the commencement of a multitude of troubles that are to arise in consequence of the swamp land act. In nearly all parts of the State settlers will be disturbed and their rights encroached upon by unscrupulous speculators. The land grabbers will construe the law to suit their own purposes, and [illegible] cunningly framed by them ex[illegible] [illegible] this design. Whether the law [illegible] it is a menace to many settlers who are likely to be involved in difficul[illegible] and perhaps litigation, through its in[illegible]. We would like to ask Demo[illegible] settlers in Union county, which has always been a Democratic stronghold, what [illegible] is responsible for the legisla[illegible] that enables "unprincipled land [illegible] to attack their rights. [illegible] think they will hardly attempt [illegible] the blame on Republicans. They will [illegible] the contrary, by attending to the [illegible] news, that one of our Republican [illegible] introduced a bill in Congress to [illegible] their rights as homestead settlers [illegible] the rapacious robbers who would [illegible] them, under the sanction of a piece [illegible] enacted by the Democratic [illegible] of Oregon.

San Francisco and the China Trade.

The [illegible] calls upon the merchants of San Francisco to unite in an effort to make that city the center of Asiatic trade and convert it into the American depot for the sale of China and India cargoes. This, it says may be easily done and adds:

> We must make this the grand continental depot for auction sales of China and East India cargoes not to be brought here and sold on commission for others, but owned by our merchants and capitalists, who can thus control prices, which, owing to this being the nearest American port to Asia, we can keep below those of the Atlantic seaports in this trade and thus make it largely for the interest of dealers to come to San Francisco for their teas, silks and other India and China products. These sales of cargoes at auction, advertised through the United States, guaranteed to be peremptory by well known commercial houses, would soon become national in character and be eagerly anticipated in every part of the country.

The Stockton Independent observes that unless some kindred proposition is carried into practice, it will be many years before San Francisco or California will derive any very important advantage from the China, Japan or East India trade. The same [illegible] also:

> At the present time, San Francisco is actually less benefited by the overland railroad in connection with the Asiatic trade than New York, Philadelphia or Boston. The Chinese steamships discharge their cargoes of tea, silks, etc., directly from their decks to the freight cars of the Pacific Railroad Company—a track having been laid through several streets to accomplish that object. The cars when loaded, are drawn to the railroad wharf and run aboard the ferryboat [illegible]. They are then transferred across the bay and started overland to the Eastern cities. This immense wealth of merchandise in touching at San Francisco benefits that city just about as much as it benefits Stockton while on the way, except that it passes through about two miles of [illegible] and only two blocks of San Francisco. [illegible] reporters are sharp at either point a good [illegible] may be made of the quantity and value of the cargo. Aside from that consideration it [illegible] see where the advantage comes in. [illegible] doubt that the capital of San Francisco [illegible] be employed successfully as the Alta suggests, except that the words "who can thus control prices," have a rather billious appearance. The San Francisco merchants have always relied a great deal too much on their ability to "control prices." If their aim is to furnish the Pacific coast and Eastern States, at the same time, on short notice, with Asiatic products at moderate profits, we can see no reason why they should not succeed. If their ulterior aim is to every now and then construct a "tea corner" and a "silk corner," in which to corral the United States of America, we have no idea that they can ever build a corral large enough or strong enough to answer the purpose.

Gov. Haight of California is endeavoring to make a great issue against railroad subsidies, and hopes to work up the case so as to be carried into office for another term upon that hobby. So eager is his Excellency in pursuit of his object that he cares nothing about his own consistency on the subject of railroad subsidies, and is now actually using all his efforts to have the Supreme Court of California declare unconstitutional acts of the Legislature granting certain subsidies to railroad companies, to which acts he gave only two years ago his own gubernatorial signature! It must be owned that this is turning a pretty sharp corner, even for a Democratic politician. It is his inconsistency on this subject,—his official acts in favor of railroad subsidies as contrasted with the special issue against subsidies which he is trying to raise now,—which causes the opposition that is made against him in his own party, and which is disturbing the harmony of the Democracy of California.

NEWS BY THE STEAMER.

Aid for the French—The Boston Contribution Exceeds $71 000.

BOSTON, Feb. 17.—The committee having the funds in charge for the purchase of food for the suffering in France, begin to-day loading the U. S. steamer Worcester at the Navy Yard. Up to last night a little over $71,000 had been raised for the purpose from all classes of the community, in sums ranging from $1 to $1,000. The storage and carrying capacity of the Worcester is estimated at 10,000 barrels. This will be filled with provisions, the principal portion of which will be flour, some beef and pork and preserved meats.

Pacific Railroad Bonds—The Subsidy Bill Regarded as Dead.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—The Senate Pacific Railroad Bill Committee, at a meeting to-day, discussed the question of the interest due on the bonds of the Pacific Railroad Company, but came to no conclusion. The matter has been postponed for a week in order to allow the Judiciary Committee to make a report on the subject now before the Committee.

The Appropriation Committee to-day, on the urgent recommendation of the Secretary of the Treasury, agreed to make several appropriations for the erection of new public buildings, as follows: For St. Louis, $400,000; Albany, $150,000; Nashville, $100,000; Hartford, $150,000; Port Huron, $100,000, to continue work already commenced in New York, $1,300,000, Boston, $942,000.

Both Houses have abandoned all idea of getting any legislation on national matters beyond the River and Harbor Appropriation bill. The subsidy measures, and all other schemes of that sort, unless they should be put on the Appropriation bill, are regarded as dead.

Aid for Chief Justice Taney's Family.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—A meeting was held to day in the United States Court room to make provision for the family of the late Chief Justice Taney. Attorney General Akerman was selected as Chairman, and Mr. Middleton as Clerk. Addresses were made by Akerman, ex Attorney General Evarts, Senators Carpenter and Edmunds and Representatives Garfield and Potter. Blair, Evarts, Carpenter, Carlisle and Solicitor General Barstow, were appointed a committee to carry into effect the object of the meeting. A large subscription was made.

The Tennessee Supposed to be Seen.

HAVANA, Feb. 17.—A vessel which has arrived at the east end of the island, reports having seen, on the 2d inst., a war steamer off the Haytien coast, with three masts painted black, bark rigged, about two thousand tons, steaming slowly, and supposed to be the Tennessee.

A Full Senate.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—For the first time since that memorable spring of 1861, when Senators from the South abandoned their seats to take part in the rebellion, the Senate of the United States contains representatives from every member of the Union.

Judicial Salaries Increased.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—In the Senate the Legislative Appropriation bill was proceeded with, the question being upon the amendment to increase the salaries of the United States District Judges.

The proposed increase was retained in the bill. Ayes, 30; nays, 28.

Following is the scale of salaries fixed by the bill; Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, $8,500; Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, $8,000; United States Circuit Judge, $6,000; Chief Justice of the Court of Claims and Superior Court of the District of Columbia, $6,000; Associate Justice of the Courts, $5,000; United States District Judges, $5,000.

Political Row in Arkansas.

MEMPHIS, Feb. 16.—The Avalanche's Little Rock special says articles of impeachment to-day were presented in the House, against Gov. Clayton, and adopted.

There is intense excitement. Clayton had a lot of arms removed from the arsenal to the west end of the Capitol, last night, and is said to be swearing in everybody he can get as militia.

It is generally understood that three Supreme Judges will be impeached to-morrow, which will stop the Court's rendering a decision in the Johnson case.

Indian Hostilities Apprehended.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The Secretary of War is now in receipt of a letter from the command ing officer at Fort Dodge, Kansas, stating that a general outbreak of hostilities on the part of the Cheyennes and Arrapahoes is expected in the spring, and the objective points of attack will be the frontier settlements of Kansas.

The "Alabama" Claims.

The claims are said by lukewarm people, to amount to $3,000,000, and by others to reach $13,000,000; there were 23 ships in all.

The presence of the Commission will make Washington City lively far into the summer, for probably a tremendous international lobby will assemble over these claims, accompanied with flocks of lawyers, thick as blackbirds.

California Politics.

Dr. James Johnson, Representative of the Upper District of California, leaves Washington on the 5th of March to take the field for Governor against Haight.

Declines the Senatorial Seat.

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 15.—Gov. Alcorn, who was elected United States Senator, to succeed Revels on the 4th of March next, announces his intention to decline.

Steamship Subsidies.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Mr. Edmunds' amendment on the Gulf Steamship Subsidy bill was agreed to on a division of 24 to 20. After further discussion, and the rejection of an amendment by Mr. Davis to refer to the committee several amendments not materially modifying it, the bill was reported to the Senate. Ayes, 29; nays, 21.

The bill, as passed, directs the Postmaster-General to advertise for and authorizes him to contract with responsible persons, who shall be American citizens, upon the best terms, for the conveyance of a semi-monthly mail service from New Orleans via Galveston to certain Mexican ports, the contractors within eighteen months to construct three first-class iron steamers, of not less than 1,500 tons burthen each, to be subject to acceptance or rejection by the Postmaster General, and the approval as to construction, of the Secretary of the Navy, and in time of war or danger the Government to take the vessel by purchase on the payment of a sum equivalent to the interest on their ascertained value. The mail contract is not to exceed ten years, nor the annual compensation to exceed $100,000. Reasonable compensation is to be paid for the first eighteen months for any pioneer vessel placed on the route.

Death of Colonel Chickering.

BOSTON, Feb. 14.—Col. Thomas Chickering, one of the Chickering Bros., the pianoforte manufacturers, died suddenly of apoplexy, this morning.

Claims before Congress.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—The House Committee on Claims have 842 cases upon their docket, about 120 of which have been acted upon favorably, and 308 unfavorably, and the remainder had not been reached. But even this last number does not include all the claims introduced into the House. Nearly every Committee has some to consider. The Pension Committee have more than 800 pension claims; the Military Committee have about 500 war claims; while the Committee on Private Land Claims, Naval Affairs, Foreign Affairs, Post Office, Patents, Judiciary and Appropriations each have a large number. A moderate estimate puts the number filed in the House during the present Congress is about $3,000, and probably over 1,000 more in the Senate. The establishment of a Court of Claims for the express purpose of relieving Congress of this business of passing upon private claims has had no apparent effect in lessening the flood of demands for relief which pour upon both Houses.

Death of Alice Cary.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Alice Cary, the well-known poetess, died in this city yesterday morning, aged fifty years. Miss Cary has been an invalid for many years.

She was buried at Greenwood Cemetery to day. The funeral took place from the Church of the Strangers, Rev. Dr. Deems, the pastor, delivering a touching funeral oration. The pall bearers were Horace Greeley, George Ripley, Bayard Taylor, P. T. Barnum, W. W. Hall and A. J. Johnson. Fanny Fern and other literary celebrities were present; also editors of most of the newspapers and periodicals.

Success of the New Loan.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—A dispatch from Washington says the Secretary of the Treasury expresses great confidence in the full success of the loan, and is in receipt of assurances from many financial sources to the same effect. It is thought that should the favorable prospects continue in less than a month all classes of United States securities will have reached an enhanced value.

The World's financial article this morning says that the appointment by the United States and England of the High Commission to settle the Alabama claims and other questions at issue between the two nations has had the effect of giving an improved tone of confidence in financial circles, and that the abundance of loanable funds and the prospect of Boutwell receiving subscriptions to the new loan, and carrying out his programme of funding the Five twenties, have given a powerful stimulus to investments in Government and other first-class securities. The impression is gaining ground that affairs are improving both here and in Europe, and capitalists are more disposed to invest.

OREGON.

Roseburg is getting ahead. It now rejoices in a town clock.

The new steamer built at Gardiner City, for the purpose of navigating the Umpqua river, has been leased to Messrs. Dixon and Wade.

A Douglas county paper says that members of the Coos Bay Wagon Road Company declare their intention to push their road through to the bay the coming summer.

The school census of Salem shows that the population of that place is 4,024. It was taken by J. H. Brown, who made a similar enumeration a year ago and found the population at that time to number 3,798.

Several real estate transactions in Salem and Marion county are noted. Among them are sales of 258 acres for $2,500; of 25 acres for $275; of 100 by 165 feet, in Salem, for $1,500; of two lots for $1,800; and of two and a half acres near Salem for $600.

From the Statesman: The ladies appointed as a committee to assist the successful organization of the Salem Library Association, met yesterday and arranged to have the city districted, with canvassers whose duty shall be to canvass for books or money to lay the foundation of the library. Arrangements are not yet complete, and due notice will be given when they intend to commence the work.

The Herald receives with a wonderful degree of patience, humility and resignation the chastisement administered by its brethren of the Democratic press. No sooner does it receive a slap from one of its punishers than it turns the other cheek meekly to the next smiter. Perhaps it feels that it is not able to resist, and that the best way to escape is to wait in the hope that its assailants will tire after a while of attacking unresisting imbecility.

CITY.

INCIDENT OF EARLY DAYS —Any person having access to a file of the Portland papers of will find an advertisement of Northrup & Simonds, doing business on the corner of Yamhill and Front street, opposite the stump of the fir tree cut down by the corporation " and thereby hangs a tale It seems that across the street from the store of Northrup & Simonds there was in those days a lone fir tree, which was at once the joy and the pride of those who did business in that neighborhood, and at a certain time there was a vessel discharging goods on the bank at this point for Northrup & Simonds, who, to celebrate the event, had stretched a flag across the street, one end of the rope being fastened to the tree It is said that about this time it was discovered by some persons further down town that the tree was a nuisance, and forthwith the Council was asked to cut it down, and it was ordered to be After several unsuccessful attempts by reason of the watchfulness of its friends, it was finally accomplished and thus it was that Northrup & Simonds came to advertise in the man described This incident has been called to attention by reason of a new advertisement in our paper this morning announcing the withdrawal from the firm of E J Northrup & Co of J C Van Rensselaer, and of the continuance of the business by E J Northrup, successor to the firm of Northrup & Simonds, and who for years has been interested in business on the old corner Great changes have taken place during these years, and the large assortment of hardware, iron, steel, hardwood lumber, oak hubs, spokes etc, to be found in the different buildings now occupied, are evidences of the fact

MR NESBIT'S LECTURE —Philharmonic Hall was quite full last evening to hear Mr Nesbit on "Shoddy " The lecturer is quite a young man, who has not yet had much experience as a popular lecturer but he is not by any means lacking in elements which may lead him to success in the line if he choose to pursue it He performs remarkably well, and is just dramatic enough to be engaging His earnestness is somewhat electrical, and he never gets down to prosiness His arrangement of his subject is not altogether very methodical nor so good as it might be and yet the matter of it in some degree compensates for all that He was often applauded for fine passages, and his mimicry (as an aid to successful treatment of his subject) was the cause of laughter Altogether, the audience—an intelligent one—was richly entertained We doubt if they have often spent a more agreeable hour than in listening to Mr Nesbit on "Shoddy "

WARREN'S RECORD OF ATTAINMENT.—A small work bearing this title, designed for the mutual use of teachers pupils and parents, has just been published by S J McCormick of this city Prof W Warren, Principal of the Central Public School a teacher of long and eminently successful experience is the author It is designed to be a daily record of the attendance progress in studies and deportment of the pupil, with a monthly report of the same to the parent The teacher has a copy and keeps a duplicate of each teacher's record The record is easily kept and understood compact and convenient, a whole term being put upon a single page The work contains also such hints to teachers, pupils and parents as must be very useful to each and all of them It is cheap, too, being supplied in quantities at $ per dozen

THE RAINS—HIGH WATER—STOPPAGE OF MAILS —Mr Gault from McMinnville yesterday, informs us that the amount of rain since last Friday must have been at least two inches and a half at McMinnville and neighborhood The whole face of the country seemed at times flooded with water, and the streams rose very rapidly and to a high stage No mails reached McMinnville on Saturday or Sunday from Portland and the Southern mail on one of those days was only brought in by swimming the horses across the bottom land of South Yamhill river till they reached the bridge The Yamhill river was the obstruction to the Northern mails The Yamhill was falling yesterday and travel will soon again be unimpaired

BUSINESS NOTE We invite the special attention of the city and country merchants to the new advertisement of Messrs Corbitt & Macleay who are now established in Capt Ankeny's brick block—Nos and Front street and 10 and First street These gentlemen are doing an extensive business with all parts of Oregon, Washington Territory and British Columbia, and as their stock is one of the heaviest and fullest assortments on the Pacific coast north of San Francisco we feel warranted in specially advising interior dealers to give them a call They will be found pleasant gentlemen to deal with, and strictly correct in all business transactions

SUDDEN DEATH AT OREGON CITY —We mention found yesterday morning a case of sudden death at Oregon City—a young man who dropped dead upon the sidewalk We learned yesterday that his name was Ed Meldrum, formerly a printer in the employ of Mr Ireland, in the Enterprise office There is something peculiar in the case Though there is no doubt in the minds of medical men that he is really dead, the body remained, up to noon yesterday flexible as in life, with some degree of warmth The family, under the circumstances very properly refused to have the body interred

CONVICTED OF ASSAULT AND BATTERY —In the case of the State vs Thos Fitzgerald, complaint assault and battery, upon John Dorscher, which was tried and submitted to the jury on Monday evening a verdict of "guilty" was rendered yesterday morning Judge Denny, counsel, filed a motion for a new trial, which was taken under advisement by the Court

CLEARED FOR LIVERPOOL —The bark Rosedale cleared yesterday for Liverpool Her cargo consists of 14,333 sacks of wheat, equal to 1,366,741 pounds of the value of $28 018 19 She will probably go down the river to day and sail immediately for her destination

SERVICES IN THE EPISCOPAL CHURCH —This being Ash Wednesday, Divine services may be expected in Trinity Church at 11 o'clock Also, at St Stephens' Chapel, Madison street, at the same hour, and in the evening at 7 o'clock at the same place

NO BETTER —Judge Stout's condition yesterday was reported as no better. His physicians have resorted to the tapping process, but without any hopeful results, and there is little, if any, reasonable expectation that he can recover

"THE TRUE LENT "—Religious services will be held in the Unitarian church this evening at 7½ o'clock with an address upon this subject by the Pastor.

"SHODDY."

LECTURE BEFORE THE YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION—BY REV D E NESBIT, OF CORVALLIS

Rev D E Nesbit delivered last evening at Philharmonic Hall the fourth lecture in the course arranged by the Young Men's Christian Association, on the subject of "Shoddy " In opening the speaker said that slang is but the infancy of poetry, phraseology which is slang in one age becomes in another classic Shoddy is an American slang word which has become fixed as a part of our language, and it carries to the understanding a world of meaning It was formerly used to designate a material that looked like broadcloth but which really was of little worth—it looked well but it wouldn't wear The soldiers in our late civil war were supplied with clothing of this sort, and as they sat in their tents and patched their almost new garments they called the material "shoddy " The word came into general use among them being applied to whatever thing or person was pretentious without merit Politicians who came down with shoulder straps and gaudy uniforms to play soldier, without the capacity to command, received the appellation shoddy. Whenever the soldiers went home on furlough and saw the wives and daughters of such men or similar people decked out in vulgar finery they nudged each other and whispered "shoddy " The word became national, and is used everywhere to describe whatever is not genuine or real We see

SHODDY EVERYWHERE

In all departments of society—a shadow which follows upon the heels of substance Impudence stands as the shadow or shoddy of independence, fancy is shoddy for fact, vanity for self respect, romance for reality, the fop for the gentleman meanness for humility, vulgarity for wit, fogyism for conservatism bragadocio for courage cant for devotion, etc, etc Everything good has its counterfeit Human nature is a strange combination of contradictions Each person is more a stranger to himself than are others We like to deceive each other, and feel slighted if we are not deceived We pardon the deception if it be clever Shoddy is currency that passes well where persons are accustomed to it It has some discount, like greenbacks but it goes We take each other's shams and smile at each other's smartness Shoddy is

THE PRODUCT OF CIVILIZATION

Barnum found it more difficult to deceive an Indian than a New York sharper Take a Syracuse sand stone carve upon its surface some unmeaning figures, submit it to some of the learned associations and the philosophers and savans will at once enter upon the most ludicrously earnest investigations and expositions of the antiquity and meaning of the inscriptions Submit the same sandstone to an uneducated man and he will at once pronounce it the lump of dirty stone it is In the case of the scientists they are humbugged easily because they wish to make a show of learning which they have not The other has no such ambition and he sees in the rock only what is to be seen. So, in the matter of intelligence may be more easily deceived than ignorance. The latter has seen and known but little of the advantages, the wonders and the civilizing power of the many improvements given to the world by inventors and he may hear of or see a pretended great invention without question or curiosity On the other hand the intelligent man who has seen and realized the value to civilization of modern inventions may be entrapped by almost any pretensions.

He hoped his audience would not boil over at what he might have to say about persons, as it could have no application to the persons present When we treat of shoddy and shams, it applies, as a matter of course, to everybody but us We are living in

and using plated wares, when we might have silver, galvanizing our faults and calling them virtues. There is a great amount of sham in the popular education of the day The schools think more of the number of their graduates than of their quality There is too much sacrifice of the natural for the artificial, there is too much of a sort of mock dignity which unfits a man for the world In the education of females, taste is sought for, but instead of that, the young lady gets affectation To illustrate the artificial manner in which young ladies are educated, he described a mamma's visit to her Angelina at the Seminary Angelina was not shown off by her preceptor in the substantial branches of education, but mamma was taken at once to see her paintings Angelina explained to her mamma that this picture was "a Roman Forum where Christopher Columbus was born;" that this other one was the "Areopagus on Mars Hill, where Cæsar was shot," another was a "scene on the Rhine, where Alexander the Great defeated the Indians," etc Girls thus educated are called accomplished. They become the wives of men educated on similar plans—men who consider work a "bosh," books a "bosh," etc —and these people the popular educated or "accomplished" world

THE SHODDY OF BOOKS

Ralph Waldo Emerson once advised that the books which everybody says you must read should be let alone for two years, and by that time they would be so utterly forgotten that nobody would expect you to know anything about them Books are made to sell—a mere marketable commodity Our country has the book mania—we are in danger from books Sabbath schools are dying of books Our books are dropsical—large but weak Plagiarism has become so common as to be no longer disgraceful Some of our most noted modern authors have got their fame by adroit plagiarisms Criticism is not always the measure of an author's merit, but of his financial resources Money makes a clever "review "

NOTORIETY IS THE KEY TO SUCCESS,

no matter how gained The rope walker risks his neck for notoriety,—he gets it and is great The man who walks across half the continent without blistering his feet, becomes a lion, and has his name stamped in hat crowns and on paper collars to give them popularity An article said to be written by this great man appears in a magazine; everybody reads and the magazine publisher gets rich on its sales Next negotiations are opened with a lecturing bureau at New York or Boston, the man of muscle is engaged, and he becomes a lecturer, crowds go to hear him and he becomes rich If any one were asked why he went, no better reply would be received than that, "I went to hear the great man, of course! Why, didn't he walk half across the continent without blistering his feet?" He had known a man who had published a series of splendid letters about Rome who had never been out of the United States! Very cheap now a days is greatness. The Hannah Moores, Dr Johnsons, Goldsmiths, Garricks, Macreadys, etc, have given place to a herd of billiard champions, base-ballists, boat-race winners, prize fighters and clowns, who from behind the foot lights make Hamlet more lunatic, Lear more vexed and Othello more jealous than ever before Shakspeare must groan in his grave to see men playing "such fantastic tricks before High Heaven as make the angels weep "

THE SHODDY OF PATRIOTISM

The mention of the word patriotism brings up memories of the really great men of various nations—men who were great in their devotion to their country, but those heroes have given place to campaign orators with sickly hands and puffy faces Patriots had been displaced by demagogues Instead of devotion to country success in politics has become the standard by which to judge statesmanship The question is not who will make the best officer, but who will run best. Statesmanship in modern days, sometimes asks the suffrage of the people in the persons of Hon John Morrissey, P T Barnum or Dan Rice. The favorite way of serving one's country is to draw a large salary in an easy office Patriotism sometimes gets stirred up by the fife and drum, shouts and throwing up of hats, and if induced to forsake its wife's relations and to enlist in the "home guards' in time of peace but that sort of patriotism is not always genuine [This was happily illustrated by a story which we have not time to relate here] Barbara Fretchie was cited as affording an instance of rare and genuine patriotism, and the speaker recited the poem of that title very handsomely He said we often do not know how brave and true are those around us There is many a warm and true heart among those who sit before me which every day knows a heroism purer and grander than that which the world cheers We are so accustomed to connect greatness with noise that we measure by wrong standards It is easy to be great on great occasions But there is true greatness sometimes in humble life, in bearing cheerfully the common ills of the world for the sake of the happiness of loved ones The world, full of such great ones would make the world happier than if it were full of Cæsars, Bismarcks, and Bonapartes [Here the lecturer spoke of several real heroes and patriots in humble life, whose self abnegation had worked out grand results and earned crowns far more precious than those worn by the proudest monarchs or military chieftains]

INDEPENDENCE OF CHARACTER

Is a noble trait, but many counterfeit with a shoddy article The sham independent man first seeks to know what is the popular opinion, then speaks and goes straightway to find out what the world thinks of him He frequently denounces public opinion to get public opinion to praise his independence Lord Byron wrote a large volume of poetry to show how little he cared for the world—the volume itself being the best evidence that he did care for what the world thought It is a queer trait in man to indulge in insolence in order that the world may applaud his bluntness yet the sham independent man often adopts that expedient The sham independent man is always defending himself from imaginary attacks, because of his own sense of inferiority The man who is always boasting that he is "as good as anybody' furnishes the best evidence that he himself don't think so He does it to keep his courage up

THE SHODDY OF SOCIETY

In society we meet artificialisms at every step We meet sham with its monkey face and mimic dignity at every turn Its politeness is more polite, its dignity, more dignified its learning, more learned its fashion, more fashionable, its religion, more religious than the genuine could possibly be We find a general disposition in social relations to carry on a paying business without any capital This is not only true of the Upper Ten, but of the middle and lower classes One of the nuisances of society is the habitual apologists—people who throw out baits for compliments Affected modesty is another sham It sometimes is so intensely modest as to be immodest [These various subdivisions were happily illustrated with anecdotes]

SHODDY ARISTOCRACY

Aristocracy said the speaker, is a good word and he had no war to wage upon the aristocracy of wealth, because of being poor Wealthy people with good heads and good hearts constitute an aristocracy against which he would never rail Wealth, rightly appreciated and rightly used, gave opportunities to cultivate learning, graces and refinement, and aristocracy thus based was a real good to the world But wealth, sometimes gathers about it all the vices without any of the virtues of genuine aristocracy The speaker then stripped the veil from the aristocracy of inflated currency, the oil regions, petroleum aristocrats, etc —all shoddy, and told several very amusing anecdotes illustrative of this class From this branch of the subject, he went off to

and its shoddy counterpart, hypocrisy, concluding with a number of practical suggestions as to the duty of Christian associations, the nature of true religion, its results in the human heart and its influence upon the various affairs of the world

AMUSEMENTS

THE WASHINGTON GUARD'S BALL —This Company's anniversary ball came off at their armory last evening The attendance was not so large as we have often known them to have, but there were enough to fill the floor with dancers without crowding, and the consequence was that everybody enjoyed a much greater degree of pleasure than people ever do in a "crush " The members of the several military companies were in uniform, which gave quite a martial appearance to the place

THE MINSTRELS —Oro Fino Theater was crammed full again last night, to see and hear the Nickerson Minstrels and the success of the troupe was quite as decided as upon their first night The general opinion of their merits as a Minstrel Troupe is that they are good, and that the spectators get their money's worth in fun and laughter.

OR
RHEUMATIC CURE.

HISTORY:
THIS REMEDY IS COMPOSED OF THE ACTIVE principle of the Unk Weed, Eng —Thaspium Cordatum Origenies Lat —Indigenous to Oregon—Grows most abundantly and perfectly in Washington county

PROPERTIES, &c:
It contains an active volatile principle extracted by Ether, and a bitter Tonic principle.

Medical Properties and Uses:
It is the most Sure and Speedy Cure for Rheumatism, Rheumatic Gout and Rheumatic Pains of all kinds that has ever been introduced in the Materia Medica. The Unk Weed Remedy as prepared by us In consequence of the existing bitter principle, possesses the necessary virtue of being a POWERFUL TONIC!

Promoting the Appetite and Invigorating the whole Digestive Apparatus, thus building and strengthening the system, while at the same time the volatile principle, being absorbed in the blood, acts specifically on the Rheumatic Poison removing it from the circulation and system

There are few remedies known to the Medical profession, which will remove the Rheumatic poison from the blood but whose action is so powerful in depressing the system of the already enfeebled Rheumatic patient, that their use has to be abandoned before specific effects are obtainable. Hence the want of success in treating this prevalent, and in consequence, heretofore incurable disease Unlike these Medicines already known, the

"Unk Weed Remedy"
Though producing as powerful and as active effects on the blood and system in removing the Rheumatic Poison also possesses a strong Tonic and recuperating element which admits of its continued use even in the most delicate and debilitated Thus we have the combination for the first time of those two necessary elements in the one remedy, which accounts for its superior and never failing curative effects in

RHEUMATISM, RHEUMATIC GOUT

Of all kinds

Little Boy Blue

BY ABBY SAGE RICHARDSON

Under the hay stack, little Boy Blue
Sleeps with his head on his arm
While voices of men and voices of maids
Are calling him over the farm

Sheep in the meadows are running wild,
Where poisonous herbage grows,
Leaving white tufts of downy fleece
On the thorns of the sweet wild rose

Cut in the fields where the silken corn
Its plumed head nods and bows,
Where golden pumpkins ripen below,
Trample the white faced cows.

But no loud blast on the shining horn
Calls back the straying sheep
And the cows may wander in hay or corn
While their keeper lies asleep

His roguish eyes are tightly shut,
His dimples are all at rest,
The chubby hand, tucked under his head,
By one rosy cheek is pressed

Wake him? No. Let down the bars
And gather the truant sheep,
Open the barnyard and drive in the cows,
But let the little boy sleep

For year after year we can shear the fleece,
And corn can always [illegible]
But the sleep that visits little Boy Blue
Will not come when the years have flown

How a Plucky San Franciscan Exemplified the Adage, "Love Laughs at Locksmiths"

[From the Ogden Junction]

Yesterday morning Ogden was thrown into a state of intense excitement, by an affair, in which romance and reality were blended and love and constancy proved stronger than cash [illegible] room [illegible] C P train arrived from the West, [illegible] was drawn up near the platform, and [illegible] beautiful lady was seen to alight [illegible] swiftly around, to hurry to the [illegible] being immediately joined by a gentleman [illegible] features were disguised from [illegible] The carriage was whirled away in a [illegible] and immediately a great outcry [illegible] by an old lady and gentleman who declared their child had been stolen [illegible] crowd gathered, and the greatest [illegible] The old gent rushed in [illegible] the carriage, crying [illegible] child they're [illegible] wagon was stopped on [illegible] watchman [illegible] the carriage, [illegible] at the driver the former without knowing whom he was shooting at or why he fired fortunately the random shots took no effect Meanwhile the police were informed of the occurrence, and the old gent obtained the services of Sheriff Brown [illegible] with him on horseback to try and overtake the mysterious carriage After chasing around for some time, they found it on the Bench empty, driverless [illegible] hitched to a stump [illegible] was aroused from its normal state [illegible] and everybody wanted to know who [illegible] and why The circumstances [illegible] this exciting chase [illegible] Alexander Weed a gentleman [illegible] respectable circles in San Francisco [illegible] Illinois where he was on intimate [illegible] with the family by name [illegible] Pickett by whom he was highly respected The oldest daughter of Mr and Mrs Pickett, who was [illegible] was taught by her parents [illegible] Mr Weed as her future husband when she should arrive at the proper age Mr Weed went to San Francisco and being successful [illegible] Mr Pickett concluded he would also move to the Pacific coast and [illegible] Mr Weed to further [illegible] preparations for the reception, all of which was faithfully executed

The Pickett family arrived but Mrs Pickett who it seems [illegible] man of the Pickett household [illegible] other arrangements for her daughter's hand wished to wed her [illegible] at a college in Chicago [illegible] as comfortably as [illegible] Mr Weed not being [illegible] visit around your [illegible] the latter to visit [illegible] girl now [illegible] had learned to love her parents for [illegible] devotedly and sincerely and de[illegible] would marry [illegible] else The pa[illegible] Mr [illegible] disobed[illegible] parents [illegible] abuse[illegible] communi[illegible] to mak[illegible] the parents [illegible] They were implacab[illegible] her over and [illegible] The [illegible] interrupted

But love can plot as well as [illegible] Mr Weed and he after giving her a week's [illegible] and time to withdraw from the scheme if she altered her mind resolved to rescue his darling from confinement and abuse and [illegible] her in his protecting arms. [illegible] family could leave for the East [illegible] Ogden made arrangements [illegible] make her [illegible] obdurate parents [illegible] reconciled Their plans [illegible] the young lady who is strong [illegible] as well as young and [illegible] played her part well and, as will [illegible] by reference to the marriage notice in [illegible] while the old gentleman was on [illegible] chase on the Bench, the lovers [illegible] the holy bonds of matrimony [illegible] excitement had in some [illegible] Mr and Mrs Pickett were [illegible] and bridegroom, who were [illegible] at the house of Mr [illegible] They were very violent and [illegible] Mr Weed without stint He bore it [illegible] and Mrs Weed took it as [illegible] The only fault [illegible] with Mr Weed was that [illegible] and a widower Thus, so [illegible] Miss Etta Pickett, [illegible] wedded to the man of her [illegible] parents are wise, they will [illegible] render the newly [illegible] happy by their con[illegible] with them to California, and [illegible] unity and peace.

[illegible] APPETITE —"The Hermi[illegible] New York writes to the Troy Times [illegible] newspaper is not yet understood, and [illegible] to the initiated [illegible] the press swallows everything [illegible] it is at the same time a mighty di[illegible] and turns all rude elements to shape [illegible] there rushes daily a vast un[illegible] mob of politics, poetry, accidents, [illegible] sermons, divorces, elopements, bat[illegible] and deaths, the next day they go out in comely order to be reviewed, commented on, sermonized, or laughed at by the world while all their lessons are earnestly summed up in the leader by means of which the editor masters and directs that mercurial element, public opinion Intellectually speaking a newspaper staff is a combination of varied intellects, each working in its place with such harmony as prevades the human muscles, and the whole fused by one will Here we have a composite "Colossus, better worthy to be called the wonder of the world than the ancient statue whose name I have just borrowed

If any one asks why I am speaking thus my reply is that in New York (and of course everywhere else) the newspaper is absorbing everything Our daily and miscellaneous press is so extensive that their titles would fill a small volume Some men take half a dozen newspapers daily The paper is to them a tour through the world It may be all they see, or want to see, of life, literature, or philosophy If a book is published the advertisement gives you its title, which is often the best part of it. Christian people need not go to the theater, for they can read a sketch of the play the next morning, and wicked men need not go to church, since the Monday's paper affords a paragraph from each preacher which may be more than is carried away by some of the stolid congregation that dozed through the whole service But I need not expatiate on this theme Taking society generally, we all know that next to the Bible, the newspaper is all in all

Hence there is a great demand for talent in this line and the Press is inviting recruits, There is a vast amount of talent lying in embryo—editors and journalists that are yet to be and as soon as any signs are manifested those signs are acknowledged here The Press is crowded with applications for employment and yet first-class men always find room The great journals of this city are scanning the continent and levying on its men of thought and utterance
